

Supply of Wool Available to Red Cross Knitters

Committee Appointed to Study Refugee Problem — Donations Still Come In.

A general meeting of Coleman branch of the Red Cross was held on Monday evening with a fairly large attendance. A discussion was held on the question of refugee children. A committee comprising Mrs. C. F. Dunlop, Norman MacAulay and Wilfrid Dutil was chosen to study the matter further and report back at a later date. The committee is now corresponding with provincial authorities and expect to have some definite information to work on within the next few days. A few weeks ago sixteen names had been received from local citizens offering the comfort of their homes to the refugee children.

A large supply of wool is now available to all ladies willing to take part in this branch of war work. Socks, scarves, etc. are still badly needed.

Donations received during June and July up to the night of the meeting, July 8, included:

United Church Congregation Greet Rev. and Mrs. Kirk

Singers Feature Sunday Service; Choir of Eighteen Leads in Singing

Rev. and Mrs. J. E. Kirk and family arrived in Coleman on Wednesday, July 3, to take over their new duties at the United church. It is their first home in the mountains, having resided in the past at prairie points and in the Peace River district. They are thrilled with the scenic beauty of the mountains, and especially by the warm reception given them by the members of the church.

On Sunday Rev. Kirk conducted the service. Featured on the program were Miss Freda Antrobus who sang, accompanied by Mrs. Richard Upton at the piano; also Dr. C. Rose and his brother from Vancouver, Dr. A. O. Rose, sang a duet. The choir of eighteen members, conducted by Dr. C. Rose, led in the singing. A large number of members were present.

The family, Stanley, Donald and Iris, are rapidly getting acquainted with other children and are coming to the conclusion that Coleman is just "a little bit of all right."

Fernie Forfeited Game Pay $10 Fine

Failure to form a team to play their league engagement in the Crows Nest Baseball league with Coleman Pucksters on Wednesday evening caused Fernie to forfeit the game and pay a $10 fine. A long distance telephone call put through from Coleman to Fernie after the game had long been scheduled to start revealed that the B. C. club were unable to field a team.

New School Teacher Appointed to Staff

Donation Refused to Ambulance Fund; Miss Myrtle Johnston Appointed to School Staff.

Regular meeting of Coleman school board held on Wednesday evening. Present Chairman Fraser, Trustees Fleming, Lloyd and Janostak.

Board endorsed the action of council cancelling 1940 taxes on Coleman Crystal arrears.

List of supplies submitted by the janitors were to be left in the hands of the secretary for attention.

A report of work by Dr. R. K. Lillie during the past year was submitted. The report was accepted and the contract with Dr. Lillie renewed.

Secretary was instructed to write secretary of Coleman Ambulance Fund regarding the soliciting of a contribution to the Coleman Citizens Ambulance Fund, advising him that the board feels it is not within their jurisdiction to do so. The secretary was told that contributions had already been solicited from the ratepayers, and should the school board grant further contributions it would be unfair.

The application of Miss Myrtle Johnston for the position of public school teacher was accepted. It is to be presented to Miss Johnston's employer, that her contract will be for the period of one year, in lieu of Miss Megan Jones' leave of absence for one year.

Accounts passed included: Walker Bobbit, $7.10; Coleman Light & Water Co. Ltd., $55.60; F. E. Osborne, $28.88; Frank Barrington, $3.56; Secretary, C.N.P. Trustees Assoc., $5.00; D. Hoyle, 95c; The Coleman Journal, $2.00.

CANADIAN RED CROSS SOCIETY, ALBERTA DIVISION

On their vacation trips this summer Alberta women can profitably use spare time knitting shoulder shawls for conserving Canadian soldiers in the Rockies. About 30 inches square, plain knitting, in bright colours and of any weight soft wool, they are easy to make.

Red Cross hospital visitors in England discovered the need for the shawls and the Canadian Red Cross authorized the making of them as a pleasant odd-job job and fits in well as a vacation pastime. Send your finished work to your nearest Red Cross branch for shipment to England.

Members of the visitor committee in England are in contact with all the Canadian Red Cross units at Coleman's Legion Burns' nights and addressess have been listened to with rapt attention. It is to be hoped that he will return to Coleman following the end of hostilities.

Rev. Father Leo Sullivan will commence his new duties in Coleman next Sunday.

MISS MARY PARTINGTON WINS BRONZE

Miss Mary Partington, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. A. S. Partington, formerly of Coleman, has been awarded a bursary by the East Kootenay drama festival authorities entitling her to six week's training in dramatics and kindred subjects at Vancouver.

She played the leading lady in "The Golden Maid" at the annual drama presentation at the East Kootenay drama festival in which student groups from Fernie, Cranbrook, Creston and Kimberley took part. Her school won the cup for the best performance.

STENCH FROM DEAD HORSE CAUSES MINERS TO PROTEST

A dead horse which had been allowed to lie about 100 feet above the bridge leading to McGillivray pit head caused so much stench this week that protests were received by the council to have steps taken to bury the animal.

The smell became stronger each day resulting in many McGillivray men walking to their work by way of the hill field rather than breathe the putrid air of the nearby cemetery. Two company men were sent Tuesday morning to bury the carcass.

GOLFERS VISITED FERNIE AT WEEK END

Eight members of Crow's Nest Pock Golf club played an interclub match with the Fernie Golfers at Fernie on Sunday. Games were won and lost by both sides were about even. The Alberta golfers won the majority of games in the morning round only to have Fernie dominate in the afternoon. Visiting golfers included R. F. Barnes, Reg. Jones, Geo. Pattinson, W. L. Rippon, H. Blake and son, V. Wilson and Geo. Penz.

Rev. Father Dunbar Has Left For Calgary

Had Been in Coleman Seven Years; Expects to Be Sent Overseas in Late Summer

Rev. Father J. T. Dunbar, minister at Holy Ghost church, left today for Calgary to prepare for his new duties which he expects may take him overseas as a chaplain. His successor at the Catholic church will be Father Leo Sullivan.

He succeeded Rev. Father Speckmaier in 1933 as minister of Holy Ghost church, leaving his position as a high school teacher in St. Mary's school at Calgary, a position he had held for six years.

Concerned over his succession at Coleman, he has requested that he be made an honorary captain and chaplain in the army. He, in company with a group of doctors and nurses, is expected to leave for Great Britain in late September to start his post which will be open at that time.

He fully expects at the present time that following the end of the war he will be sent back to Coleman.

In the departure of Rev. Father Dunbar, Coleman loses one of its most fluent speakers. Each year he has been one of the main speakers at Coleman's Legion Burns' nights and his addressees have been listened to with rapt attention. It is to be hoped that he will return to Coleman following the end of hostilities.

Rev. Father Leo Sullivan will commence his new duties in Coleman next Sunday.

Canadian Legion Sponsored Successful Picnic on Sunday

150 In Attendance; Games and Sing-Song Enjoyed; To Be Annual Affair.

The most successful picnic ever sponsored by a local branch of the Canadian Legion was held on Sunday at the west end of Crow's Nest Lake with approximately 150 persons in attendance. About forty cars were required to transport the food, refreshments and equipment for various games.

Under the able supervision of President Wm. Martland and his committee a program was drawn up and run to schedule never allowing for a dull moment during the entire day. Games, horse-shoe pitching and various other games were enjoyed by all and as evening approached it was a tired but happy group of people that wended their way home.

So successful was the outing that the Legion has decided to sponsor it annually.

Cole's Theatres to Boost Sale of War Savings Stamps

Cole's moving picture theatres are to be congratulated on their decision to contribute to Monday, July 15, the patriotic effort to stimulate the sale of war savings stamps. It is understood that war savings stamp will be sold at 25¢ each and that the holders will be admitted free to a showing of patriotic films. This is indeed a splendid gesture, since without any advantage to himself to the theatre owner throws open his premises to further the national effort in the raising of funds for the prosecution of the war.

For the theatre owner there is no gain except the satisfaction of furthering an essential national cause. For the patrons there is the opportunity for entertainment and an investment in savings stamps which can be built up twenty-five cents at a time until four dollars has been invested when the stamp may be exchanged for a $5.00 war savings certificate. It is now up to the public to support the theatre owner's generous offer with heavy patronage of this effort to stimulate the sale of war savings stamps.

WEDDINGS

Johnson — Stewart The marriage took place on Thursday, June 27th, of Margaret Buchanan, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Stewart, of Blairmore, and Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Coleman. The wedding took place in the study of Blairmore United church, Rev. E. B. Arrol, B.A., officiating. The bride was attended by Mrs. James Stewart, brother of the bride, supported the groom. After a short honeymoon, the happy couple will take up residence in Coleman.

Panek — Kovenko The marriage of two local young people took place at Holy Ghost church Saturday, June 27th, of Miss Jennie Kovenko, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Kovenko, of Coleman, became the bride of Mr. Alvin Frank Panek, son of Mr. Joe Panek and the late Mr. Panek Attendants were Miss Alva Kovenko, sister of the bride and Mr. Joe Panek, brother of the groom. Rev. Father Dunbar conducted the service.

The newly-weds will reside in Coleman, where the groom is employed by McGillivray Creek Coal & Coke Co. Ltd.

LEKOUSKY — CARTWRIGHT The marriage of Miss Ethel Cartwright, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Cartwright, of Blairmore, to Mr. Fred Lekousky, of Burmis, was held in the United church manse, Coleman, with Rev. J. E. Kirk officiating. Attendants were the sister and brother-in-law of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Celina.

The newly-weds will reside at Burmis where the groom operates a ranch.

That is the gist of a appeal made by several authors during the war. Those who are not completely trained will be accepted, too. It is stated that regardless of the unit joined, the ancient naval principle of "every man to his best job" will be applied—the recruit will eventually find himself doing for the army what he has done best in civil life. Rev. Father J.T. Dunbar Honored by Parishioners

Social Evening Held on Wednesday; Presented With Purse; Many Speakers.

The parishioners of Holy Ghost church met in the Italian hall on Wednesday evening to honor and bid bon voyage to Rev. Father Dunbar who left on Thursday for Calgary, where he expects to leave in the near future for war duties overseas. Approximately 150 parishioners were present in addition to speakers from Pass towns.

Chairman Tom McCloy explained why the gathering had been called. Rev. Father Dunbar, in his seven years amongst them, had endeared himself to his people and it was for one last gathering together.

Rev. Dean Harrington, of Blairmore, remarked that this assembly to honor Rev. Father Dunbar brought home to them the critical times through which they were passing. Our was a happy existence, and Rev. Father Dunbar was about to embark for other shores in order that he might minister the comforts of religion to those who sought to defend that happy existence against military might and brutality. He gave a resume of Rev. Father Dunbar's career up to the present time. He bid him farewell and expressed regret at his leaving.

John S. D'Appolonia regretted the departure of a real friend of humanity. He was proud that Father Dunbar's excellent qualities had been recognized by his superiors and that his services would be administered where they were most needed. He had won the admiration of the entire community and the progress of Holy Ghost church was in no small measure due to Rev. Father Dunbar.

Steve Leosky, stated that the present Holy Ghost church was erected in 1905. Nine or ten preachers had practiced here since that time but there never had been one as good as Father Dunbar. He hoped that his absence would not be long.

Rev. Father O'Dea, of Bellevue, had helped install Rev. Father Dunbar in Coleman in 1933, and he was very sorry to see him go. No better choice for the position could have been made in the Calgary diocese than that of Hon. Capt. John T. Dunbar. The cosmopolitan population of the Pass would stand him in good stead in his new work.

C. J. Tompkins, of Blairmore, paid tribute to the ladies for their co-operation with Rev. Father Dunbar in church work.

J. J. McIntyre stated it had been a profound shock to the parishioners on Sunday last to hear the announcement that Rev. Father Dunbar was about to depart from their midst. He gave a resume of his work during the past seven years and hoped that his absence would not be too long. On behalf of the parishioners he presented Father Dunbar with a well-filled purse.

Wilbur Raymond, president of the C.Y.O., presented the guest-of-honor with a cigarette lighter on behalf of the organization.

Winning New Markets

The action of the federal government in appointing a national oil controller is a natural sequence to the decision of Parliament to vest in the government authority to conscript the man power, resources and productive power of the country with the prosecution of the war with maximum speed and efficiency in this country its single objective.

When the importance of oil which, in this instance, means petroleum and all its derivatives, including gasoline and fuel oils, as an agency of warfare in this generation is taken into consideration, the early decision to exercise control over production, manufacturing and marketing of all petroleum was to be exercised without as soon as the government was clothed with the necessary powers by the people's representatives.

While at the time of writing comparatively few details of the steps that will be taken to control this valuable Canadian resource into its important auxiliary in the country's war effort, and the extent to which it will be used for this purpose, has not been announced, it is taken for granted that the war needs will be given paramount consideration as indeed it should, but that at the same time, the country's ordinary industrial requirements for petroleum will be safeguarded, insofar as they do not hamper requisitions for war use. The government and the controller will undoubtedly recognize that agriculture of the present day is largely dependent upon gasoline and fuel oils for its efficient operation and that efficient operation of agricultural pursuits is one of the most important roles which Canada is expected to play in the fight against Hitlerism.

A Widening Scope

Combined with the imposition of a new levy on imports, governmental control and regulation of the oil industry of the Dominion, in addition to speeding up and strengthening the nation's war effort, should prove an economic advantage to the west and particularly Alberta, the site of the Turner Valley oil field, proven in the past two or three years as one of the greatest oil reservoirs in the British Empire.

One of the benefits to be expected from this combined move is a substantial extension of the domestic market for Alberta petroleum. Until now, the Alberta product has been restricted to a comparatively narrow market and it has been economically unfeasible to ship it as far west as Vancouver or as far east as Winnipeg. It has thus been virtually restricted, as a commercial possibility, to a portion of the prairie provinces, where the demand is largely seasonal due to climatic exigencies. Not only that, but even in the limited market it has been subject to competition with oil from fields in the Western States.

As a result of these two factors it has been necessary during the past two years to ration production in the Turner Valley field, otherwise there would have been overproduction.

Apart altogether from any control measures which the government may impose through the national oil controller, the market for Turner Valley petroleum has been widened automatically as a result of the new war exchange impost of ten per cent. on imports and this measure alone is expected to bring the Winnipeg market into the Turner Valley orbit. It is understood and anticipated that regulations are likely to be devised and made effective which will still further widen the market for the Alberta product, though which of several possible measures with this end in view will be adopted is not yet determined. It is expected, however, that the Pacific Coast market will be brought within the Alberta sphere and that sooner or later Turner Valley oil will be made available to at least, a portion of the Eastern Canadian market.

Dual Objective

One effect of these actual and potential measures will undoubtedly be a marked stimulus to further development of the sources of supply, not only in the Turner Valley oil fields, but in other Alberta fields and may be expected to result in an acceleration of exploration and testing work in Saskatchewan as well as Alberta.

Another and news prospective outlet for Western Canadian petroleum is the manufacture of gasoline of high octane rating for use in the large quantities of aeroplanes which will shortly be in service in the west under the air training plan. While this, it is understood, will necessitate some changes in equipment at the Western Canadian refineries, it is reasonable to expect that the necessary alterations will be made and that this is contemplated as part of the national control plan.

With regard to some of Western Canada's agricultural products materially improved as a result of the misfortunes of the earlier stages of the war in Europe, it is very vital that other sources of revenue be expanded to enable the west to make a maximum contribution to the war effort and to furnish an additional insurance policy in post war days, when they come. Petroleum may be destined to be one of these sources.

Britain's Chancellor Of The Exchequer Speaks Of Confidence From The Empire

Sir Kingsley Wood, chancellor of the exchequer, told Britons that "no limit can be put to our war effort; we must throw everything in". In a luncheon address the chancellor said more than £4,000,000 (about $17,600,000), had been offered in response to the government's recent appeal for interest-free loans, and that one man signing himself "Confidence" had sent a gift of £200,000 "without any condition".

Gifts to help finance Britain's war effort have come from every part of the Empire. School children and old age pensioners are among the donors.

Sir Kingsley said one of the vital reasons for confidence in the future was the fact that the "daughter nations are throwing everything in and are sending, in increasing measure, men, materials and munitions."

Queen's Own Adopted "Old Balalaika" After Rider Was Killed

In a recent interview in Toronto, Sir William Mulock, of that city, who called the Queen's Own in 1861, relates the story of "Old Balalaika".

"Old Balalaika" was the famous chestnut warhorse whose rider was killed. And he never paused—just went right on with the duty for which his master gave him life. And they never disapproved the fact.

He was in it, rideless, as long as he lived. The Queen's Own adopted Balalaika and treasured him till his death. And the empty saddle was kept empty till he died.

Will Of The People

Is Main Thing About Democracy Dictators Do Not Like

The whole idea is that the world should run by a few "supermen" assisted by their terrorist machinery and brute force and that anybody who "thinks" differently from these "supermen" is an enemy of the state and must be "liquidated". Under this scheme of things democracies are doomed because they are based on the will of the people instead of the will of the dictator. That is the real secret of bitter totalitarian hostility to democracy.—Times of India.

Technique Of Parachutists

Matter Of First Importance To Study Their Methods

An announcement by the office of the director of public information says "it has become a matter of the first importance to study the methods adopted by German parachutist troops, and to consider how they are dropped, how they are equipped and clothed, and what their objectives are."

The parachute troops are dropped to arm them, to create panic and confusion and spread false news among civilians, to harass communication lines, to damage bridges, power stations, wireless and telephone exchanges, stores and dumps, and to give information to aircraft by means of signals.

The parachutists are said to be able to jump safely from a height as little as 150 feet from planes travelling about 75 miles an hour. The planes often are about 1,600 feet apart, the aim apparently being to land a company within a space 600 by 1,300 feet and to get it as quickly as possible within 15 minutes.

The technique consists of a closing steel belt holding together what a motorcycle's crash helmet, a double-breasted tunic and trousers of the plus-four type. The helmet is narrower than the normal German steel helmet and has neither neck shield nor peak. The blue-grey tunic is cut loose with the collar turned down and open at the neck, with no buttons showing. The trousers are tucked in over boots half high and laced at the side. Each man wears gauntlet gloves.

The light equipment carried by each man includes hand grenades and a gun capable of firing 600 rounds a minute. Other weapons and equipment dropped in special containers attached to self-opening parachutes are filled with ammunition, rifles, field glasses, compasses, smoke candles and wire.

Patrols of the entire country is given as the essential means of defense against parachutists.

Music By Faith

Brilliant Young Canadian Composer To Be Guest Conductor On International Networks Feature

Long noted for his brilliant performances over the Canadian networks, he is one of Canada's leading composers of modern music. Presently he has recently completed arrangements to conduct several programs for the Canadian "Contented Hour" which commenced July 1st. He is known and educated. Faith attended Jarvis Collegiate and the Toronto Conservatory of Music, beginning his studies at the latter institute when he was 11 years old. Notes for his "streamline" treatments of the classics, his arrangements for the concertos, string bands across the sea, and later conducted the Fifth World Concert for which he wrote and arranged the music.

His forte of taking stock scores and turning them into joyous, decorative, musical pieces, which has won him international recognition, today he is regarded as one of the most interesting and original of the younger generation musicians in Canada.

Transport Planes Used Successfully By British Air Force

At a British Airdrome. Ordinary transport planes with the seats taken out and bomb racks and gun turret put in have become a source of satisfaction to fliers of the Royal Air Force.

Young pilots who showed reporters around the airdrome and took them on a short over-water demonstration flight, call their sturdy, twin-motored California-made Lockheed "wizards" because:

1. Although they started out primarily as scouting planes, they were found good enough for fighting, and bombing, and have shot down more German planes than any other British type except the Spitfire and Hurricane fighters.

2. No German Messerschmitt has been able to shoot one down.

3. They have lived at most than 400 miles an hour.

4. They are so sturdy that one came back from Germany with a hole in the wing big enough for a man to jump through.

Flying out over the coast as the eyes of Britain for convoy protection, they look almost like any airliner carrying passengers and mail.

The only differences are the smudgy camouflage, bubble-shaped gun turret in the tail, and a red, white, blue and yellow bullseye instead of an airline's name on the side of the machine.

A Scottish flying officer watched them take off, one by one.

"I don't want to know what your job is," he asked. "It's to break the siege of Britain—getting ships safely into the harbors. They're so good orders to America can never be filled."

He wouldn't say how many had been delivered.

He told how three of the planes had met 40 German machines. Thirty flew on, leaving 10 to handle the planes. When the shooting was over, five Germans were down and five had run away. All the R.A.F. planes came home.

One pilot said that once when he was only 10 feet above the water he suddenly saw a Messerschmitt in front of him.

"I jerked my stick," he said, "and hopped over it just like a frog."

Lord Athlone Heads Red Cross

For the first time in the history of the law school at Melbourne University, Australia, highest honors in scholarships have been won by a woman.

Great Havoc Caused By Bomb Explosion At N.Y. World's Fair

New York.—A flame-throwing bomb, disguised as a portable radio, killed two dextics and injured five others—two critically—after they had rushed it from its hiding place in the British pavilion at the New York World's Fair.

The blast tore a hole five feet wide and four feet deep in the ground of a little-used plot, smashed two huge glass windows in the dining salon of the Polish pavilion, 15 yards away, and ripped the floor from the booth in which it exploded victimless.

The explosion shook the lower and of the foreign section of the fair and sent fear through the holiday crowd of more than 180,000 visitors.

The bomb—police said it was a time-device—spread destruction only two days after a mysterious voice in a telephone call had ordered the British pavilion switchboard operator to "get out of the building, we're going to blow it up."

Killed in the blast were Detectives James J. Lynch of the Bronx and Ferdinand Socha of Brooklyn. In critical condition were Detective William J. Federer, 26, of Queens, and Joseph Gallagher of Brooklyn.

Lega of both men were broken, each was severely burned and cut, and Gallagher's skull possibly was fractured.

The bomb had been secreted in the fan room on the second floor of the pavilion.

Firm On Monroe Doctrine

United States Confronted With Challenging Note From Germany

Washington.—Confronted with a challenging note from Germany calling the United States government's interpretation of the Monroe doctrine "untenable," the state department served notice anew that it would uphold the doctrine and, in addition, virtually threatened to oust any German diplomats in the country who publicly discussed American policy.

The latter action was evoked by the fact that Baron Edgar von Spiegel, the German consul general at New Orleans, had been quoted in the press as saying Germany would not forget the aid given her enemies by United States.

A state department announcement said it appeared the consul-general thought he was not speaking for publication and that it was "perhaps due to a misunderstanding" that publication resulted.

"The matter has been taken up with the German embassy here," said the spokesman, "and it has been pointed out that public discussion of questions relating to this country's policies and attitudes does not properly come within the province of foreign government officials in the United States."

Then the department added pointedly that permission granted to foreign government officials to remain in the United States is dependent upon observance of this rule.

Refugee Money

Pouring Across Atlantic From War-torn Europe

New York.—Tales of a great tide of refugee money across the Atlantic from war-torn Europe are hidden behind banking figures, showing billions deposited in big Wall Street banks had swelled to record-breaking totals.

Under current statements disclosed deposits in the Chase National bank alone had increased to $3,190,232,000 compared with $3,060,769,000 at the end of March and $2,696,486,000 a year ago.

In mid-year 1933, Chase deposits amounted to $1,302,900,000 at the turn before the big climb from the depression lows and the start of the foreign money shift from Europe.

Evacuate Irish Children

Belfast, Northern Ireland.—The North Ireland cabinet decided that school children from densely-populated Belfast should be put into effect "at an early date and short notice." The measure was described as precautionary.

Narrow Escape

R.A.F. Observer Thrown Out Of Plane, But Clings To Door

London.—An air ministry bulletin told of the hair-breadth escape of an observer in a Royal Air Force bomber during a night raid over Hamburg when oil storage tanks were attacked successfully.

Bursting outward from anti-aircraft guns blew open the door of one attacking aircraft, almost hurling the observer into space. He hung on grimly to the edge of the door. "Some moments later he was with difficulty pulled back into the aircraft, suffering from slight shock but otherwise unharmed," said the bulletin. "Later he was able to resume his duties."

The crew of the first aircraft over the target reported that "our first two bombs missed by 100 yards but the third registered a hit which was followed by a fine explosion."

Pilots of another R.A.F. plane returning from a raid over Germany descended on the sea on account of engine trouble but managed to get out an SOS before the machine submerged, the air ministry related. The crew scrambled into their dinghy, and finally was picked up by a rescue launch after 13½ hours on the water.

May Man French Ships

Members Of Canadian Navy May Be Used On Fleet Taken Over

London.—Canada's fighting sons of the sea probably will be used to man some units of the French fleet taken over by the Royal Navy, it was learned in authoritative circles.

Many members of the Royal Canadian Naval Volunteer Reserve have been undergoing training in the United Kingdom for some time and the Canadian government has assured London that others will follow. These men who are known to have impressed admiralty officials with their keenness could be used as officers on French men-o'-war.

Without a ship at present are 90 officers and men who survived the collision recently of Bordeax, in which the Canadian destroyer Fraser was sunk. They are known to want to continue serving as a unit under the skipper.

It is possible the Fraser's personnel might be brought to full strength and given one of the destroyers added to Britain's naval strength when she moved dramatically to keep French warships from being used by the enemy against Britain.

Adequate Labor Supply

Matter Of Great Importance For Carrying On War Work

Ottawa.—Stressing the necessity of training along the right lines in order to maintain an adequate labor supply for war industries, the labor minister, Hon. Norman McLarty, told members of the National Labor Supply council that the situation in Europe made Canada increasingly important as a centre of production of war materials. He said the transfer of labor from non-war to war industries might be considered as a matter of great importance.

The advisory council held its first meeting, under chairmanship of A. J. Hills, chief of personnel of the Canadian National Railways, and laid the ground work for future deliberations.

Canadian Troops

Recommend They Be Chosen For Defense Of Britain

London.—Lord Mottistone, who as "Jack" Seely commanded the Canadian cavalry in the first Great War, suggested in the house of lords that Canadian troops should be chosen to engage the enemy if land in Britain became their "more novel conception of warfare."

He recommended the Canadian soldiers not because he agreed with them in the last war for 3½ years "and I know their value, but because amongst these Canadian divisions—and this also applies to other divisions overseas where there are wider spaces—there are people with more novel conception of warfare."

Lord Mottistone said he had made the suggestion to a Canadian officer with a distinguished record, who had replied "That just suits me."

He was introducing a motion in the upper house asking the government to take prompt action to increase the offensive power and equipment of the citizens of Britain. Military had been greatly increased, he declared, but the "method of meeting an invasion needed more consideration."

"I've seen ridiculous tank traps barred wire and so on along the beaches which would prevent our people from going down to engage the enemy," he said. "What's the good of that?"

Lord Mottistone suggested that an Australian division be given the job of dealing with enemy troops attempting to land from the air.

Regain Citizenship

Washington—Native-born Americans who lost their citizenship through marriage to aliens prior to Sept. 22, 1932, but who have remained in the United States since that time again may become citizens under a measure signed by President Roosevelt. The law applies only to women who have remained married to the same alien husbands

Extension Of Britain's Defences To Guard Against Invasion

London.—In a vast extension of Britain's "defence area"—her ram-part against invasion—the government has excluded the public from the entire English east coast and substantially all of the southern coast, a 1,000-square mile region.

The order lengthening and deepening the defence area will, in supplement with the previously-declared defence area, make a solid line 20 miles deep, given over entirely to military operations from Berwick-on-Tweed, in Scotland, down the east coast and around Dorset on the south coast.

In addition the home office took two other defence steps:

All civilian former Austrians, Germans and Italians—men and women who became British subjects after December 31, 1932—were ordered to the police Sunday and Monday.

All aliens possessing maps showing smaller scales to the inch than 12 miles, and guide books, to surrender them to the police.

The coastal defence measures have resulted from Hitler's grab of the coasts of France and the low countries. Almost since the start of the war the whole of North Scotland and nearby islands, have been restricted areas because of their importance as naval bases and sites of power developments.

The English coastal defence area—a part of the country which would be hardest to Hitler's reach across the channel or the North Sea—was taken under such complete control that no one may enter or leave the district save on business of national importance.

Londoners who have sea-side cottages at such resorts as Brighton, Eastbourne and Hastings may as well forget them for the summer.

Actual residents of the area may be moved if their land and houses happen to be needed for billets, gun emplacements or trenches.

The east and south coasts of England now present pictures very close to that of battlefield.

There are harbored wire entanglements, trenches strategic fields, machine gun and heavy artillery emplacements, dugouts and redoubts. There are airfields, anti-aircraft batteries, listening posts, searchlight batteries and the toughest of all British troops—the survivors of Flanders and of Dunkirk.

Somewhere among them, the exact place unknown, stands the Canadian first division.

Sentries stand on all roads and rail lines.

Royal Canadian Army Service Corps Winston Churchill Warns That She Is In Danger Of Invasion

Ottawa.—Prime Minister Winston Churchill has warned Ireland in a speech before commons that she is in "imminent danger" of German invasion.

Churchill said that Britain is preparing to repel any invasion of Eire with the same vigor that it will meet Adolf Hitler's threatened blitzkrieg against Britain. He added:

"For very long we have been taking every precaution in our power to repel assaults of the enemy whether they be directed against Britain or against Ireland. All Irishmen, with out distinction of creed or party, should realize that imminent danger hangs over us."

In his speech Churchill reiterated that he had been on the tongue of every British militarist in the past few weeks. Already such men as Leslie Hore-Belisha, the colonial office was advised by the government, had warned that Ireland, with its meager defences, is the danger spot in case of German invasion.

Falkland Islands Help

London.—Legislative council of the Falkland Islands has decided to transfer stock valued at $50,000 ($222,000) to the British government for the purchase of warplanes.

The colonial office was advised by the spirit entitles them to every aid which this country can give them, and it means that the struggle, entered upon this heroic plane, can yet be won."

The New York Times declared editorially: "Whatever bitterness will be caused in France by this tragedy piled upon a vast tragedy, fair-minded opinion agrees that the British were right in what they did."

The Boston Globe, in addition to approving the British action, expressed commendation for Mr. Churchill personally in saying: "This latest decision shows he still possesses the courage and audacity for needed decisions."

Said the Kansas City Star: "In the circumstances, the British were forced to move swiftly. The terms they offered were extremely fair. Most responsible Americans will cheer the Churchill government for resorting to the desperate measures that it took to meet the emergency."

The Baltimore Evening Sun: "The tragedy of the British naval action to prevent the French fleet from getting into German hands is that it must appear to many as a bitter fight among hitherto faithful allies. Actually, of course, the French fleet acts under Hitler's orders spoken through the mouths of French who have no choice but to utter them."

Washington Evening Star: "It is tragic, of course, that events should have precipitated the shocking spectacle of French and British warships so recently allied in common cause, engaging in mortal combat."

But for England to have stood by supinely while French warships were so unscrupulously delivered into the hands of an unscrupulous enemy, whose record of treachery is notorious, would have been beyond comprehension."

McKeen Hunter, Coleman old-timer and for the past few years a resident of Calgary, has now taken up residence at the Dufferin Hotel at Vancouver. The proprietor of the Dufferin is another former Colemanite, Adam Paterson.

Mrs. I. Neilson is confined to her home through sickness.

"THIS, TOO, WILL PASS"

In the Maritimes where, even in peacetime, a new trouble afflicts the soul every few minutes, a business man keeps a framed motto over his desk: "This, too, will pass." The war, too, will pass into oblivion. The reason that war will pass is well expressed by Voltaire who wrote that "The English people are people who defend themselves." They will not give up the rights that cost their lives their blood.

What sort of world, what sort of Canada emerges from this war depends on us. But mainly, the kind of country we have in future depends on what kind of country we strive to make it. If we drift, we shall likely drift into some order, or disorder, of revolutionary economic dream. If we plan and work hard, we shall have a solid and sound principles of individual liberty, freedom of opportunity and justice to all, we might evolve a system whereby none able and willing to work would have cause to complain.

For our part, we are unwilling to let go of our ideals. We intend to do this, but believe that we will win this nation restored to a condition where our lives will be our own, our taxes moderate, our unemployment and railway problems solved, and a healthful recovery begun from the over-government that has been created. We believe the basic reforms that were needed then will be needed when peace comes. Meanwhile it behoves all who believe that we can get back to principles which made British countries greater in former times to be thinking and planning to avoid complete social revolution which benefits mainly those who eat out of the public trough and which tends to destroy those who abhor despotism.

An honest and sincere approach for maintenance of sound principles will be needed, especially if it becomes really realized that the reason for the downfall of France has been the partaking of the economic poison of Popular Frontism or of New Dealism.

Rather than take up farther along this line, the author and the lessors therefrom may best be to get back to first principles. We, in this organization, believe we can help in convincing the average citizen in city and town, East and West that first principles more surely than any other will help us all to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness.—The Printed Word.

COLEMAN'S SOLDIER BOYS
SPEAK FROM EDMONTON

Coleman's two soldier boys in the S.A.R. at Edmonton were heard on radio Monday evening, the occasion being the singing at the barracks of the S.A.R. which was put on a province-wide hook-up. After the singing the men were given a chance to say hello to their families at home. Both Jim Anderson and Jesse Hirst were heard speaking to their families.

As the War Proceeds

CANADA'S need for conserving her financial resources will undoubtedly increase and in addition to our ordinary trading with the U.S.A. we shall have to find gold to pay for extraordinary purchases of materials of war.

Hitherto coal has been one of the commodities we had to pay for in the U.S.A. as annual purchases by central Canada have approximated 15,000,000 tons annually. This represents a tremendous deflection from our mines and railways, as it comprises half the consumption of the whole of Canada.

By the use of CANADIAN COAL BY CANADIANS from now on the monetary equivalent of these foreign tonnages will accrue to the benefit of the people of Canada. Canadians must support a Canadian Fuel Policy to ensure steadier work to Canadian mineworkers.

Besides, every retail and wholesale business serving the miners is directly affected in this vital matter.

MATERIAL WELL-CUT "UNDIES"

By Anne Adams

These coatless summer days your shorts must be "underlined" with special care. Pattern 4308 is a slip style designed by Anne Adams to fit to the mature figure mettulously and no disturbance of the garment. The small panels on the sides are so easy to stitch. And those ingenious extra seams at the hips prevent riding-up and help to make a nicely fitting garment. A perfect, flowing, twisting skirt that has plenty of fullness. Notice how the straps are cut in one piece with the side panels. The waist is a little higher on one side, lower on the other, and may add dainty lace edging. Roomy cut bloomers or panties are included in the "musthave" style.

Fabric: 4308 is available in women's sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 & 48. Size 36, silk, 2½ yards 39 inch fabric, and 2½ yards elastic.

Send twenty cents (20c) in coin (stamps cannot be accepted) for this Anne Adams pattern. Write plainly to Anne Adams Pattern and Style Dept., and send orders to: The Anne Adams Pattern Dept., Winnipeg Newspaper Union, 175 McDermot Ave. E., Winnipeg 4, E. W. Winnipeg.

Hard Feature Of War

Germany Will Get Food While Conquered Countries Starve

In an interview with a Toronto Evening Telegram writer, Alice Hemming, political writer for Lord Rothermere's London papers, said recently: "It's not Germany that will go hungry this winter; it's Norway, Denmark, Holland, Belgium and France. The people in these countries will die in hundreds from starvation and Germany will tell them: 'We're not depriving you of food. It's Britain's.' That's going to be one of the hardest features of this war. Because these people must suffer. Over here you'll get frantic appeals for relief ships. But you can't send them. You must not. Every time you ship relief to these destitute countries, you're cutting Britain's throat."

Mrs. Hemming thought the influx of English children to this country augured well for Canada's future. In Mrs. Hemming's eyes, many British children spending several years in Canada, will come back here to live when they're older, even if they return home after the war.

The Soy Bean

Has Many Industrial Uses Apart From Its Food Value

The soy bean is a native of China, but to-day its main home is the United States. This year's production of this bean in the U.S.A. is expected to amount to 110,000,000 bushels.

Fifty centuries ago the Chinese ate the soy bean, but nowadays the vegetable, while still used as food for the poor and poor, has, hundreds of industrial uses being used in the making of glycerin, varnish, billiard balls, note paper, ink, paints, automobile parts.

This continent first saw soy beans in 1804, when a New England clipper ship brought specimens to New England from China. It was not until much later that farmers learned that soy beans made excellent forage, and could be used, like alfalfa, to enrich exhausted soil. From 2,000 acres in 1909 the U.S.A. planting of soy beans has increased to 6,000,000 acres.

Shoe manufacturing was introduced into America in 1629 by Thomas Beard, who brought hides over the Mayflower.

Getting It Straight

Wording Of Army Forms Seems To Cause Some Confusion

"Who is it does the wording of Army forms?" John Hilton asked the other day. "Who is it sticks all these long words in, when simple words would do? I'm looking at Army Form O-1700. It's the first form the budding soldier fills up, and before he signs it he must be sure he's read the bit at the bottom." What's that? "For this purpose the expression 'pay' means the rate of pay to which the soldier is entitled and any proficiency pay or analogous emoluments."

"Analogous emoluments! It's moved an ex-soldier's clerk of my acquaintance to humor. He is mixed up in it because he has to hand the forms out and explain them. He says he can see lots of parents scratching their heads over the news that Alberta's got an 'analogous emoluments' and wondering whether, if he should get home on leave, they ought to make a wire cage for it in the garden or borrow an extra large frying pan.

"But there's nothing to be done. Lurking somewhere in Whitehall are men with massive minds who use words like that just as you and I would say 'Pass the salt shaker,' and naturally you put them on the forms; so we've all got to learn them or else make mistakes. Why, I've just been told of a mother in the Midlands who was mighty pleased because her boy, she said, had been promoted for checking the drill-sergeant. Promoted?" the neighbors said. "Yes," she said, "they've made him a court martial!"—London Listener.

To Be Expected

Hittler And Mussolini Would Never Consider Peace Conference

George Lansbury, who recently died in Old London at the age of 81, had done his best to avert the present war both by personal sacrifice and counsel. It was in 1937 that Lansbury, known to his friends as "Uncle George," went to Berlin to meet Hitler. He suggested to the Nazi leader that he should join a world peace conference. Hitler refused, and Lansbury told him he would live to repeat that decision.

He went to Rome and told Mussolini: "You cannot bring back the glories of ancient Rome. You cannot take care of a civilization built on domination, force or the shifting sands of greed, ambition and avarice."

I Read --- And Write --- For You

By JOHN C. KIRKWOOD

About 250 years ago Joseph Addison defined happiness in these words:

True happiness is of a refined nature, and an enemy to pomp and noise; it arises in the first place from the mind, and secondly from the heart; it is the result of a sincere and constant friendship and conversation of a few selected companions. It loves shade and solitude, and prefers a quiet life to a noisy one; it loves quietness, and despises noise; it loves contemplation, fields and meadows. In short, it feels everything it wants within itself, and receives no additional pleasure from multitudes of witnesses and spectators.

On the contrary, false happiness loves to be in a crowd, and to draw the eyes of the world upon her. She does not receive and enjoy the love of others, and which she gives herself, but from the admiration she raises in others. She flourishes in courts and palaces, theatres and assemblies, and has no existence but when she is looked upon.

The world's total number of motor vehicles, according to a recent official report, is 45,422,411 automobiles.

This includes the two that are in Britain, and one in the U.S.A. and in the United States has 68.5% of the total number. Britain ranks second, third Germany, fourth, and France fifth.

Here in brief is the story of a man's rise from lowliness and obscurity to eminence. George Lewis Bourne was born in London, England. He came to Canada in 1860. He worked for the Hudson Bay Company and the Canadian Pacific Railway. Then he went to the United States—in 1892—and became locomotive engineer in their engines. While with the Chicago Great Western Railroad Company he worked for a while under Walter P. Chrysler, then master mechanic.

Subsequently Bourne became an instructor on air brake cars at the International Correspondence Schools. In 1904 he was made president of a company making railway materials. This company was later taken over by the Superstite Company, making equipment for utilities and industries. Last month he died, at the age of 66.

In its fiscal year ended April 30, 1940, the Florham Shoe Company made a net profit of $1,014,226. This achievement can be credited to the fact that they maintained national advertising.

The Florham shoe is a good shoe, and it is quite extensively advertised to consumers.

The company has been successful in its advertising, focusing on its outdoor advertising, which has shown an enormous annual demand with obvious advantages to the company, its contractors and employees, and the consuming public.

Advertising is a way of making a business big.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

JULY 14

JOE'S STRUGGLE TO FAITH IN LIFE AFTER DEATH

Golden text: As for me I know that my Redeemer liveth. Job 19:25.

Lesson: Job 3:19.

Devotional reading: Job 14:1-9.

Explanations and Comments:

Job 14:1-17. The fourteenth chapter, which gives us Job's speech, begins with the words:

Man that is born of a woman, he cometh forth like a flower, is of few days, and full of trouble, and is cut down;

He fleeth also as shadow, and continueth not;

Then Job argues that a tree may be cut down and sprout again, but for a man death is final. Despairing of his own worth, he goes to sleep in the place of the departed and God were sheltering him there. Moffatt's translation of the first three lines of our printed text reads: Job's meaning becomes clearer than the other versions.

Wouldst thou but hide me in the nether world,

Concealing me until they wrath over me;

And then remember me when it is time!

If only man might die and live again;

I could endure my weary post until relief arrived;

Thou wouldst call and I would come;

When thou didst yearn for life that thou hadst made;

Thou wouldst not keep account of all I do;

You wouldst not watch for nothing, but my faults;

My guilt would be sealed up and set aside;

Then wouldst thou comfort me my sin.

I know that my Redeemer liveth.

Job 19:23-27. Job wishes that words were inscribed in a book (scroll), engraved with an iron pen and lead on a rock while water ran over it. This is the kind of punishment he expects for his sins. "For the last time! For the last time! For the last time!" he exclaims. For the primary meaning of the Hebrew word translated "Redeemer" we turn to its meaning in Lev. 25, and there it is the name of kin who, by duty it was to avenge a murder or buy land that has come into the market. Verses 25 and 26 mean: "I have more than a document; a champion who is alive even when I am dead!"

"The important words are 'I shall not die without a champion'—not 'I shall not die on my own behalf.'

The Witness or Redeemer is God, at last and firmly his friend, and Job is to depend on him for his salvation.

Job's meaning indicates that very accusation of God which he has so constantly, daringly, and often despairingly uttered."

Needs Canadian Cheese

Britain Is Anxious To Obtain Largest Quantity This Season

The British ministry of food are desirous of obtaining the largest possible quantity of cheese from Canada this season," according to an announcement by Agriculture Minister Gardiner, based on cable advice from the United Kingdom.

Last month the minister announced the sale of 78,400,000 pounds of Canadian cheese to the food ministry but it was intimated at Ottawa that an even greater supply may be needed.

A limited need for processed milk products is also indicated in Britain, the announcement stated.

Maintaining of milk supply during the summer months will be of first importance, the minister stated. Where possible the diversion of milk from other uses to the manufacture of cheese will add to the supply.

The Earl of Athlone

Has Served His Country In Many Parts Of The Globe

Canada is a nation of the western world of free peoples. The dominion of Canada is acknowledged, the country is one of a self-governing people who of their own free will express their preference of unity with the British Empire. The official title which links the dominion to the Empire is that of governor-general.

The Earl of Athlone, newest holder of the highest honour among all the portfolios of Britain's realm beyond the seas, is a viceroy after the traditional pattern. Quite aside from royal ties which bind him to royalty, he brings to Canada the reputation of a career of zealous service for his country in many parts of the globe. Buffalo Courier-Express.

Iceland Survey

Say German Airmen Established Landing Field Last Year

German airmen, in the guise of glider instructors, carefully surveyed Iceland last year, Haraldur Arason, director of Iceland's chamber of commerce, told Halifax reporters.

He reached Halifax by train, en route to Reykjavik from New York. The "glider instructors" established an excellent landing field in their lengthy visit, but it has been destroyed by British troops who, with Canadian forces, are guarding the country.

Health League of Canada presents TOPICS OF VITAL INTEREST

by DR. J. W. S. McCULLOUGH

MILK, THE PERFECT FOOD

The elements necessary to the growth, repair and health of the human body are proteins, minerals, carbohydrates and vitamins, writes Dr. E. W. McHenry, in an article on nutrition in the current issue of "Health", organ of the Health League of Canada.

McHenry provides some variety or other of all these requirements, Dr. McHenry states, pointing out that milk is exceptionally rich in calcium, and this is of the greatest importance to infants and children because it helps to form sound, strong bones and teeth.

Milk not only is a rich source of vitamin A, but supplies the best protein one that is especially helpful to growth, the article continues. And, too, milk supplies two more excellent and essential foods, cheese and butter. Cheese contains calcium in the proportion of one quarter of a pound to a quart of milk.

Eggs are an indispensable item of diet, the article asserts. They furnish protein, fat and vitamins and also the iron which the body must have.

"The mother who can supply her family with plenty of milk, cheese, butter and eggs need worry very little about the health of her babies," Dr. McHenry states. "She has already provided most of the essentials of nutritious diet, and her chief concern will be variety of preparation.

Against Will of Majority

Mussolini Entered War Without Backing of Italian People

Mussolini declared war against the will of the majority of the Italian people. Rothesay Reynolds, Romeo correspondent of the Daily Telegraph, signed his paper after returning to Delgrado following outbreak of hostilities.

"The attempt to stir up the nation's hatred of Britain and France failed," he wrote. "Only impulsive youths and stout Fascists but not by any means all who are wearing the party badge in their button-holes, have been鼓led by the anti-Axis propaganda of the controlled press."

Neutral observers on the plaza where Mussolini announced his war declaration said Reynolds that not a single cry was raised against Britain and France. Fascist associations commanded for the purpose did their duty in applauding each sentence of Mussolini's speech but the attitude of those who shouted showed they had little idea of the terrors war might hold for Italy.

"Never has a more reluctant nation been sent to war. The Italian people will one day avenge the pride of Mussolini and his leaders.

"Did she ever tell you anything about her past?"

"Oh, no," said Aileen quickly. "It was mostly about her mother, who died about four years ago."

"Did she ever tell you her Christian name—the mother's, I mean?"

"Louisa," answered the girl promptly. "You're awfully mysterious, Mr. James Carlton. What has this to do with poor Mrs. Gibbons?"

"Nothing at all," said the letter containing the money which came to her quarterly were addressed to "Louisa," 14, Kennet Road, Birmingham, and re-addressed by the postal authorities. A letter came this morning."

"Poor soul!" said the girl softly. "Yes."

It was surprising how well she understood him, remembering the shortness of their acquaintance. She knew, for example, when he was thinking of something else his voice rose half a tone.

"I think that queer? Do you remember my telling you of the 18,000 policemen and the brigade of guards, and the whole congregation of the blessed? And now we have got acquainted because Mrs. Gibbons' mother was named Louisa! That discovery—I shouldn't have asked you, because I knew it already proved two things: first that Mrs. Gibbons committed a crime some fifteen years ago, and secondly, that this is the second time she's been dead!"

He suddenly relaxed, and laughed softly.

"Don't tell me," he warned her. "I know just the magazine character whom I am imitating! The whole thing is rather complicated. Did I say coffee or dinner?"

"You said coffee," she said.

The popular restaurant into which they went was just a little overcrowded, and after being served they lost no time in making their escape.

They were passing along Coventry Street when a big couple rolled slowly past. The man who was driving was in evening dress. * * * They saw the sheen of his diamond studs in the red tip of his cigar.

"Nobody on earth but the Splendid Harlow could so scintillate," said Jim. "What does he do in this part of the world at such an hour?"

The car turned to the right through Leicester Square and passed down Orange street at a pace which was strangely majestic. It was as though it formed part of and led a magnificent procession. The same thought occurred to both of them.

"He should really travel with a band!"

WOMEN WANTED

38 to 52 years old. Women who are restive, nervous, NERVOUS who feel their mothers die to take Lydia A. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Pinkham's is famous for helping women during their trying times. It is safe, regular, reliable. Get a bottle today from your druggist! WORTH TRYING!

"I was thinking that, too," laughed the girl. "He frightened me terribly the night he came to the flat. I mean, when I opened the door to him. And I'm not easily scared. He looked so big and powerful and ruthless that my very soul cowered before him!"

They passed up deserted Long Acre; it was too early for the market carts to have assembled, and the street was a wilderness. Suddenly the girl found her hand held loosely in Jim Carlton's. He was swinging it to and fro in the way that children have when they walk hand-in-hand. The severer side of Miss Aileen Rivers closed its eyes and pretended not to see.

"I've got a very friendly feeling for you," said Jim huskily. "I don't know why, but I just have. And if you talk about the philandering constituency, I will never forgive you."

Three men had suddenly debouched from a side street; they were talking noisily and violently, and were moving slowly toward them. Jim looked round: the only man in sight was walking in the opposite direction, having passed them a minute or so before.

"I think we'll cross the road," he said, and took her arm, and, quickening his step, almost led her to the open sidewalk.

The quarreling three turned back, and Jim stopped. "I want you to run back to the other end of Long Acre and fetch a policeman," he said in a low voice. "Will you do this for me? Run."

Obediently she turned and fled, and as she did so one of the three came lurching toward him.

"What's the idea?" he said loudly. "Can't we have an argument without you hitting in?"

"Stay where you are, Donovan," said Jim. "I know you and I know just what you're after."

"Get him," said somebody angrily, and Jim Carlton whipped the 12-inch length of jambok that he carried in his pocket and struck at the nearest man. As the flexible hide reached its billet the man dropped like one shot. In another second his two companions had sprung at the detective and he knew that he was fighting, if not for his life, at any rate to save himself from an injury which would incapacitate him for months.

Again the jambok reached home; a second man was felled. And then a taxicab came flying down Long Acre board. * * *

"No, not Bow Street," said Jim; "I was in the taxicab, a most unheroic woman, on the verge of tears."

I guessed what they were after," said Jim, as they were driving home. "It is one of the oldest tricks in the book, that rehearsed street fight."

"But why? Why did they do it? Were they old enemies of yours?" she asked, bewildered.

"One," he said. "Donovan." He carefully avoided her first question.

The presence of Mr. Harlow in his lordly coupe was no accident. The car which had passed down Orange street was ostensibly carrying him to Vira's Club, but there was a short stretch which had brought him through St. Martin's Lane to the end of Long Acre before the two walkers could catch up with them. What was more important than that it was very clear to Jim that the girl went under observation, and had been followed that night from the moment he left the club where he lived, until the attack was delivered.

The reason for the hold-up was not difficult to understand, even supposing he ruled out the very remote possibility that it was assassinated.

The modern type of post that usually catches the eye of travellers is one in Dorset pointing the way to "Old Handley," an abbreviation for the name of the village of Sixpenny Handley—Manchester, England.

He saw the girl to her lodgings and went back to Scotland Yard, from which he sent a telegram awaiting him. It was from the detective force of Birmingham, and ran:

Your inquiry 783 begins Mrs. Louisa Gibbons died, Feb. 18, 1921. Letter which came to her regularly every quarter, and which was subsequently read-dressed to Mrs. Gibbons, of Stamford Rents, Lambeth, invariably had Norwood postmark. This fact verified by lodger of late Mrs. Gibbons of this town, Annie Maud Gibbons' real name, Smith. She married James Smith, a plate-layer on Midland Railway, March 3rd, 1910. Her husband killed in war, July 5th, 1915, Hooge, Ends.

A great deal of this information was not new to Jim Carlton. But the Norwood postmark was invaluable, for in that suburb of London lived Mr. Ellenden.

But before that clue could be followed, Jim Carlton's attention was wholly occupied by the strange behavior of Arthur Ingle, who suddenly turned reclusive, declined all commun-action with the outside world, and locking himself in his flat, gave himself up to the study of the cinema-graph.

CHAPTER X.

In the days which followed, Jim Carlton was a busy man, and only once during the week did he find time to see Aileen, and then she related one of the minor troubles of life. A new boarder had come to the establishment where she lived, an athletic young man who occupied the room immediately beneath hers, and whose apparent admiration took the form of following her to her room every morning at a respectful distance.

"I wouldn't mind that, but he makes a point of being in the neighborhood of the office when I come out for lunch and when I go home at nights."

"Has he spoken to you?" asked Jim, interested.

"Oh, no, he's been most correct; he doesn't even speak at meals."

"Bear with him," said Jim, a twinkle in his eye. "It is one of the penalties attached to the moderately good-looking."

Jim interviewed the girl's new admirer.

"As a shadow you're a little on the heavy side, Brown," he said. "You should have found a way of watching her without her knowing. 'I'm very sorry, sir,' said Detective Brown, and thereafter his espionage was less oppressive.

It was remarkable that in none of the excursions which Jim Carlton made from day to day did he once see Arthur Ingle. Purposefully he called at those restaurants and places of resort which in the old days were favored by the man. It would not be a sense of shame or an unwillingness to meet old friends and associates of a more law-abiding life that would keep him away; if anything, he was proud of his record.

"It almost looks as if he had gone over to the capitalists," said one.

"I didn't notice the flags were flying in Piccadilly," said Jim.

Sign Posts in Britain

HISTORIC POSTS IN ALL PARTS OF THE COUNTRY SHOULD BE PRESERVED

Now that signposts are being removed or rendered undecipherable, a correspondent hopes that care will be taken with them. Very curious and historic posts found in all parts of the country should be preserved, if not in their original positions, they can be either placed in museums or restored to their rightful position or to the roadside.

Where chemical control involves the spraying or dusting of plants, it is also necessary to know if the insecticides to be used will injure the plant tissues. Nicotine sulphate, pyrethrum, derris and other poisons may be used without fear of damage in most cases. Calcium arsenate is less safe but if applied with care and diluted with hydrated lime, will seldom cause serious injury except to the most delicate plants. Pesticides, however, may burn the foliage and should be used with extreme caution except on very hardy plants.

There there is the wooden post at Brownhills, near Lichfield, dated 1777, and pointed out by the locals as the oldest in England, although nearly Chipping Campden is one apparently set up in 1696. It is said to mark the site of a gibbet where once hung the body of a man executed for the alleged murder of his master, who was later found to be alive.

Using Insecticides

REDUCING LOSSES IN FIELD AND GARDEN CROPS AS WELL AS TREES

Insecticides are the substances used in the chemical control of insects and related pests. They are widely employed in every branch of agriculture, and in the Prairie Provinces serve not only as an effective instrument in reducing losses in field and garden crops but also in preventing serious damage to shade trees and shelterbelt plantations by many tree pests.

Generally speaking, insecticides are divided into two classes—stomach poisons and contact poisons, states Lloyd Peterson, Officer in Charge, Dominion Entomological Laboratory, Indian Head, Sask. This classification is based on the manner in which the insecticide enters the body of a pest to cause death. Stomach poisons, common among which are lead arsenate, calcium arsenate and Paris green, are only effective when they are eaten, whereas contact poisons such as nicotine sulphate, pyrethrum, sulphur, lime sulphur and oil emulsions kill only by coming in contact with the pest, entering its breathing pores or penetrating the thin membranous portions of its skin.

The significance of stomach and contact poisons, and the importance of knowing their limitations becomes apparent when it is considered that most plant pests of economic importance are classified, on a basis of feeding habits, into two groups—chewing forms and piercing-sucking forms. Chewing pests which include such insects as grasshoppers, crickets, caterpillars, beetles, and sawfly larvae bite portions out of the plants and eat them. They can be killed by covering the plants on which they are feeding with a stomach poison, such as nicotine sulphate or pyrethrum, directly to the pests themselves. Piercing-sucking pests, among which are aphids, scale insects, plant bugs, leafhoppers, and mites, do not bite portions out of the plants, but thrust their tube-like proboscis deep into the tissues and suck the cell sap. Against such feeders stomach poisons are ineffectual, and contact poisons must be used.

While several methods have been devised to control this deadly menace to our national health, it is practically impossible to completely eliminate it. As individuals, however, we can accomplish a good deal towards stamping out the danger in our homes by getting rid of any flies that happen to get in.

The most effective, convenient and inexpensive method is to trap the flies with Wilson's Fly Pads. Three or four of these, placed in strategic points throughout the house, will work quickly, cleanly and kill all the flies. This protection should start with the first sign of the fly season and continue throughout the summer months.

If every home and eating place adopted this precautionary measure, much would be accomplished in banishing the menace to our health—and thus make our community a safer, cleaner place to live in.

SAMPLES OF BRITISH SPIRIT

During an air raid along the East Coast of England an incendiary bomb fell through a roof and landed on the head of an 82-year-old woman who calmly smothered the bomb in blankets and then put it in a call for an air raid warden who found her at table playing patience.

AN EXPENSIVE DOG

Dr. Isaac Soeskin of New York, owns a $12,000 Saint Bernard dog, and he didn't trade two $6,000 cats for it either. The dog cost him that much when in jumping a fence to chase a cat it bowed over a reputable citizen and broke his leg.

HAWAIIAN PATTIES

1 lb maple sugar, broken veal, 2 cups ground, uncooked veal, 2 Christies Old English Wafer, (combined fine)

1 egg

1/2 teaspoon salt

1 teaspoon minced onion

6 dashes paprika

3 tablespoons butter

1/4 cup brown sugar

1/2 cup pineapple juice

Mix all five ingredients and shape into six patties. Brown patty in two tablespoons butter; then brown veal patty. Place veal patty on each pineapple slice in a greased baking dish. Put remaining butter and sugar over the flame and melt over low flame. Add pineapple juice and cloves, heat and pour over patties. Bake covered 20 minutes in the oven (425 degrees F.) Six patties.

Food Shortage in Europe

HERBERT HOOVER PREDICTS MOST DISASTROUS FAMINE IN EUROPE

Herbert Hoover merged his war relief experience of 20 years ago and his observations on present conditions abroad into a prediction that the sceptre of "the most disastrous famine in history" hangs over Europe.

If the present war is a short one, he said, there will be a "short famine," but if it continues for many months the problem of feeding Europe's millions will be unparalleled in the history of human suffering.

Belgian city of Brussels, Hoover added, probably will be without food in 60 to 90 days unless aid is provided.

He said he had communicated with Germany, Great Britain and the "refugee government" of Belgium seeking consent for some "third party intervention" to feed the starving Private charity could not handle the situation, he declared, recalling it took $25,000,000 a month to feed Belgium in the last war.

Common Cause

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE MONITOR COMMENTS ON U.S. PRICE TAX ON ARMAMENTS

A news item records that $37,000,000 worth of surplus war material, munitions, and ordnance has been sold by the United States War Department to a steel company which in turn is delivering it at that price to the British and French Allies.

This is heartening and gratifying in the sense that it indicates that American aid through the furnishing of supplies to the Allies is actually getting under way. The more quickly other such deliveries of guns, airplanes and other equipment can be made, the better.

Yet since Americans clearly believe their own interests and safety depend on the success of British and French resistance to aggression, why do they haggle over payment and put a price on the assistance they are willing to give? Why charge the soldiers of Britain and France for means of protecting a freedom and decency that is America's as well as theirs?

If the United States by an expenditure even of millions of dollars can help establish a world order based on justice instead of force, and can be spared the sacrifice of its sons, the victory will be cheaply purchased. In a common cause, should not America now be on hand to give arms to the Allies in addition to those they can purchase?—Christian Science Monitor.

The Only Viewpoint

CANADA SHOULD ADOPT BRITAIN'S HOPEFUL OUTLOOK FOR THE FUTURE

The Huron Expositor, Seaforth, Ont., says:

The disaster to the Allies in France is too crippling to make light of, and as we are able to comprehend it, with the passing of the days, it will become more realistic and terrifying.

But it can be viewed in different lights. And here is one of them. Speaking in England, the British Parliamentary Secretary of the Ministry of Information said:

"It will not be on the dry land of Europe that this war will be won. It will be upon the seas and in the air; in distant continents; as soon as unlimited resources of the British Empire and the Americans can be mobilized to turn the scale."

If that is true, and a member of the British Government would scarcely say it, if it were not, all yet not yet utter darkness on one side of Britain. There is still hope at least as Britain views the scene. And if there is still hope for Britain and Britain still believes in hope, why should we, in Canada, become too downcast?

SOLDIER FROM YORKSHIRE HAD CLEVER IDEA FOR MAKING MONEY

When recruits receive their Army clothes they usually send their "civil" home by post. When these did not arrive as expected, the mother of a Yorkshire recruit wrote to him to ask the reason.

He replied: "Dear mother, I am letting out my house at 2d. a night, and my overcoat at 1s. for the week-end."

It only remains to be said that this shrewd Yorkshire lad is stationed in Scotland.—News of the World.
